

ARROGANT PORTE ANXIOUS FOR WAR

Turkey Apparently Determined to Force Clash With Greece Over Crete.

POWERS MAY HAVE TO FACE REVOLT

Budget Matter Continues to Disturb Peace of London—Country Keeping Close Eye on Lord Beresford—Startling Increase of Insanity in England.

Powers Will Use Force if Necessary

LONDON, August 14.—Unless Greece complies with the demand of Turkey and forces the people of Crete to haul down the Greek flag, which they have hoisted, the four protecting powers of Crete—Great Britain, Russia, Italy and France—will use force to compel the Greeks to do so. This was the substance of a joint note signed by the four powers and presented to the Turkish government to-day. To be prepared to use force if necessary, the powers have decided to send an additional warship to Crete, the capital of the island of Crete.

LONDON, August 14.—A dispute as to whether they occur in budget debates in the House of Commons or in diplomatic quarters at Constantinople, the weather seems to add to their acrimony. Another week of financial discussion in the House of Commons has advanced the progress of the budget by a scarcely appreciable stage. The concessions adopted by the government during the recent interval have in no sense placated the opposition. The House of Commons is expected to vote on the budget to-morrow. The lower house, reaching final passage six weeks hence, or possibly later. There is no clear indication yet what the House of Lords will do, despite Lord Lansdowne's declaration that it will strike out or amend any new feature of a revolutionary character. As such it regards the new land taxation, including much that will depend finally upon the fluctuating tide of public opinion. Meanwhile there is some justification for the government's anxiety that there has been a distinct diminution in the public opposition to the bill during the past few weeks. The reason for this is the repeated declaration of Lloyd-George and Winston Churchill that they are trying to put the new burdens exclusively on the rich, and the idea appeals to the masses, who are unable to understand that it is impossible in the ultimate effect to differentiate.

Turkey and Greece.
The quarrel in the opposite corner of Europe threatens to cause a general outbreak of powder before it is settled. The new Turkish government is inclined to assert its rights not only insistently, but arrogantly. It is not satisfied with Greece's placating declaration of her neutrality and attitude in the Cretan trouble, and it would require only the slightest provocation to induce the authorities at Constantinople to make a forcible settlement of the question. A severe earthquake was felt at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the districts of Iakawa, Kyoto and Osaka. Many buildings collapsed and several fatalities have been reported. All trains in the earthquake district have been stopped. A slight shock was also felt in Tokyo.

MARBLE BUSTS SENT HERE

Two Masterpieces of Famous Sculptor Smuggled Out of Italy.

ROME, August 14.—Two marble busts, masterpieces of Francesco de Lanza, of the fifteenth century, have been smuggled out of Italy. The busts were valued at $50,000, but were declined. It is reported that they have been sent to the United States.

ANGRY HUSBAND SHOTS

Member of Well-Known South Carolina Family Killed in Georgia.

ROME, August 14.—Edward Harris, aged twenty-five, a member of a well-known South Carolina family, was shot and killed to-night by Frank Rossi, an Italian restaurant keeper, in a restaurant in Rome. Harris was in jail here, charged with the crime. Eyewitnesses say Harris and the woman were talking on the porch when the woman cried out, "Kill him, Frank," at which the Italian fired three times. Rossi claims he heard the woman's cry and that he shot his wife, and when he ordered him away Harris attacked him and he shot in self-defense. Harris leaves his widow and child.

HARRIMAN OFF FOR PARIS

He is here to take a look at the situation. Although his various walking, motor-car and sight-seeing excursions during his stay here gave the impression that his health was good, Mr. Harriman, while in London, had been suffering from a severe attack of indigestion, a well-known specialist on diseases of the stomach.

Very Busy With Home Affairs.
MADRID, August 14.—Being absorbed in home affairs, King Alfonso has postponed indefinitely consideration of the Peru-Ecuador boundary question. His Majesty is arbitrator in this dispute.

Denial Report.
[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] PARIS, August 14.—Jean de Reszke, telegraphing from Maribad, denies the report that he is going to America to sing in concert.

Fire on Cunard liner.
LIVERPOOL, August 14.—Fire to-night broke out on the Cunard line steamship Lancia, which is docked here. The fire is still burning.

Continued on Page Two—Column 5.

ITALY IN A QUANDARY

Visit of Czar to Be Sign of General Labor Strike.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
ROME, August 14.—The socialist and anarchistic objection to the visit of the Czar next month threatens to take a serious form. The earlier agitation led the government to change the place for the meeting of the sovereign from Rome to Bari, a southern Italian port, where the ceremony will be confined to an exchange of greetings on the shore. Now the agitators, after a great series of meetings throughout Italy, declare that it is the intention to force from the government a general strike of the labor force in the whole country on the day of the royal meeting. It is serious embarrassment to the government to attempt the mobilizing of the entire army in order to deal with the situation.

EXPLOSION ON SUBMARINE

Fourteen People Injured, One Fatally.

ST. PETERSBURG, August 14.—An explosion on board the submarine Dragon, which was lying in the Neva, injured fourteen people and killed one. The explosion occurred while the submarine was in the harbor. The cause of the explosion is still a matter of conjecture, but it would appear that it resulted from the ignition of the powder which was being taken on while the motors were working.

PARIS TALKS TO NEW YORK

Wireless Conversations Will Soon Be Carried on Without Trouble.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
PARIS, August 14.—The wireless station on the Eiffel Tower receives all the daily messages from New York and often picks up messages from London. The present installation, which belongs to the War Department, is being replaced by a more powerful one. When a definite installation has been completed, the fittings of which, except the antenna, are of the latest type, all underground, Captain Ferri, director of the service, expects to talk regularly with New York without trouble.

THIEF ABOARD SHIP

Philadelphia Man Arrested in Paris, Charged With Stealing Jewelry.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
PARIS, August 14.—Clarence Hown, a Philadelphia man, was arrested to-day at the Hotel Continental, charged with the theft of jewelry aboard transatlantic liners of the Cunard Company. Hown was arrested by the police, who were spending money freely. A woman who was in the way of the detectives and to whom Hown had pretended to be a friend, was arrested. The police, who had a photograph of the ring as stolen property. This led to Hown's arrest.

MAY BECOME RECONCILED

Duke and Duchess of Marlborough Apparently on Better Terms.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—It is rumored that the duke and duchess of Marlborough, who were estranged for some time, are about to be reconciled, owing to the intervention of friends, among whom Mrs. Ascham, the duchess's friend, is mentioned. It has been noticed that the duke and duchess have been meeting lately more frequently than would seem likely in case of continued estrangement. The duchess is now at her country place in Devonshire.

SHE ATE FIVE WATERMELONS

Then Lucinda, a Colored Woman, Went to Bed and Died.

LOUISVILLE, KY., August 14.—Lucinda Davis, a colored woman, aged thirty, died to-day. She had been eating five watermelons at a contest last night. Dr. Loomis Blanton, assistant coroner, pronounced her death the result of indigestion, induced by acute indigestion. Lucinda ate five watermelons.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

Many Buildings Shattered and Several Fatalities Reported.

TOKYO, August 14.—A severe earthquake was felt at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the districts of Iakawa, Kyoto and Osaka. Many buildings collapsed and several fatalities have been reported. All trains in the earthquake district have been stopped. A slight shock was also felt in Tokyo.

THREAT TO UPSET HEARSE

Funeral of New York Murderer Confronted Under Police Guard.

NEW YORK, August 14.—Fearing that his enemies would upset the hearse at the funeral of a man who was a public figure, a police guard was assigned to the relatives of Rafael Gascone, an East Side cafe keeper and confessed murderer of two men, who was killed recently by a seventeen-year-old boy in revenge for the death of his brother and cousin. Later, permission for the funeral was obtained. Rumor credited Gascone with five murders, but the officer, to whom he confessed before dying, says that only two were acknowledged.

BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD

Private Sets a New Mark for Rifle Shooting at Camp Perry.

CAMP PERRY, Pa., August 14.—The world's 200-yard rifle record was broken to-day by Private J. A. Boardman of the United States Marine Corps team. Boardman scored 88 in four strings of 49 each. The high mark was won by Captain James E. Fehet, of the Ninth United States Cavalry, with seventeen bullets. The Texas and Virginia teams were added to the camp to-day.

YOUNG VIRGINIAN KILLED

Member of Old Dominion Rifle Team Run Over by Automobile.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
ROANOKE, VA., August 14.—Mr. C. S. Powell, a merchant, received a fatal injury to-day from a car. He was driving a car when it was struck by a car. He was killed by a car. He was killed by a car.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

House Uninjured, but Four Occupants Badly Hurt.

ABRUZZI COMING AS AMBASSADOR?

Sensational Report From Washington Says King Will Aid Love Match.

STORY IMPROBABLE, BUT CAUSES A STIR

Duke Has Arranged to Lecture in United States Next Spring Under Auspices of National Geographical Society—Said That des Planches Will Be Recalled.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 14.—That King Victor Emmanuel of Italy will befriend his cousin, the Duke of the Abruzzi, and help him to marry Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, by appointing him Italian ambassador to the United States, as well as the recent appointment of an Italian military attaché, which office has been vacant at Washington for several years.

A VALID CHRISTIANITY

Bishop Williams' New Book Will Cause Another Great Stir.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DETROIT, MICH., August 14.—Gospel agnostics like Dr. Huxley should be admitted to the church is jeopardized by his blatant champions of faith and order. Religion is not essentially a cult, but primarily a profound inward experience.

MANN THANKS TUCKER

Successful Candidate for Governor Makes Grateful Acknowledgment.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW YORK, August 14.—Judge Mann returned this morning from Gordonville, where he delivered an address on yesterday before the Piedmont Association.

INITIATION IN CAVE

Novel Ceremonies Attract Hundreds of Shriners to Luray.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LURAY, VA., August 14.—Shriners from Virginia, Washington and Baltimore attended the novel initiation ceremonies of the order in the Luray Caverns to-day. The ceremony was presided over by the grand master, John F. Mayer, treasurer, Frank Cunningham, past illustrious potentate, and C. A. Nesbitt, secretary of Acacia Temple, Washington, D. C., past imperial potentate of North America. The ceremony was a grand affair, and the caverns were filled with the order, flowed from business and pleasure. More than 400 Shriners were in attendance.

PULLMAN PORTER A THIEF

Stole Diamonds Valued at $10,000 From Victim of Robbery.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHICAGO, ILL., August 14.—The arrest of George Martin, Pullman porter, on the Chicago and North Western, running between Chicago and Lake Geneva, brought a confession to the police that he had stolen diamonds valued at $10,000 from a woman who had been robbed by a Pullman porter on her way to Lake Geneva.

WANTS NEW MINISTER?

Reported United States Has Asked Recall of Cuban Representative.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
HAY, August 14.—A report was in circulation here to-day to the effect that Fred M. Dearing, the American charge d'affaires, had presented a demand to the Cuban government for the recall of Carlos Garcia y Diaz, the new Cuban minister to the United States. It was also stated that Mr. Dearing had been asked to present a demand to the Cuban government for the recall of Carlos Garcia y Diaz, the new Cuban minister to the United States.

PRESIDENTS MAY MEET

Executive of United States, Panama and Colombia Expected at New Orleans.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 14.—Three Presidents may meet in New Orleans on Mr. Taft's visit there about November 1. They are President Roosevelt of the United States, General Jose Miguel Gomez of Cuba, and William Howard Taft, of the United States.

KILLED BY STREET CAR

Trying to Escape Rainstorm, Man Struck by Car.

ATLANTA, August 14.—Clerico H. Majors, a traveling salesman, who was run down and fatally injured by a street car on a boulevard last night, died of his injuries early to-day at the City Hospital. According to an eyewitness, Majors was hurrying across the street during a blinding rainstorm, when he was struck by the car. He was thrown twenty feet, and his skull was fractured.

STABBED HIS STEPBROTHER

Six-Year-Old Boy Used Kitchen Knife With Deadly Effect.

NEW YORK, August 14.—Hyman Schiff, six years old, stabbed his stepbrother, Isaac Rogers, in the abdomen to-day and fled from the East Side tenement house in which they lived. Isaac probably will die. The father, Isaac Rogers, is a Panamanian who has been in the city for some time, and is believed to have been the cause of his act.

JUDGE KILLS HIMSELF

Ill Health Supposed to Have Caused Him to End Life.

LANCASTER, KY., August 14.—City Judge Clinton Armstrong committed suicide by shooting himself at his home here to-day. He was widely known in political circles. He had been in ill health for some time, and this is believed to have been the cause of his act.

GOT TOO MUCH ATTENTION

Professor Denies Reported Statement Concerning Value of Filtration.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BOSTON, August 14.—Professor G. H. Palmer, of Harvard University, is out with a denial of the story published some time ago that he had said he considered it advisable for young women to indulge in filtrations. He has been getting clippings from all over the world, showing that his reported advice has been widely and erroneously and, therefore, he has issued a statement, in which he says:

"On June 16, I delivered a commencement address at a girls' college in Boston, taking for my subject the common objections to the higher education of women—objections generally based on the statement formulated by hostile mothers. In speaking of mothers, I said that a mother often fears that her daughter will be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that in the rare cases where intellectual interests do for a time overshadow the social, we may well bear in mind the proverb, 'A girl who has had only social interests before twenty-one does not usually gain intellectual ones afterwards,' which is a statement of fact. I said that a mother should not be afraid to let her daughter be too much interested in the world, and leave her unit for mixed society. To this I replied that